TIP!

twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-third...
thirty-first, thirty-second, thirty-third...

Listen, read and sing.

It was the thirty-first of December, snowy and white.
 I went to a party that cold winter's night.
 There was singing and dancing, music and fun.
 There were games. There were drinks for everyone.
 I remember it well, oh yes, I remember it well.
 Then... ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three,
 two, one.
 It was twelve o'clock! Another new year!
 We said, 'Goodbye' to the old year.
 We said, 'Hello' to the new.
 My friends, new and old, said, 'Happy New Year!'
 'Happy New Year!' I said, too.
 I remember it well, oh yes, I remember it well.

Look and say. Use I went and I said.

Hello home Goodbye Thank you to school to bed

LOOK!

I said, 'Happy New Year!'
I went to a party.

Harry's blog

Sunday, 19th April

Yesterday, we had a welcome party for Sally, a new pupil at school. Before the party, I went to my friend Mark's house for pizza. Then we went to school together in his dad's car. All our friends were there. Sally's parents were there, too. There was cool music but the room was too hot. There were some dancing games and a dancing competition. A lot of the girls were good at dancing and Mark was good, too. He was one of the winners. It was a fun night.

MINI-PLAY

The First Thanksgiving

In 1620, 102 settlers went from England to North America.

Look at our ship. It's called the Mayflower. It was our home for many weeks.

Now we've got a new home. But we haven't got food! And it's autumn! There is no time to grow food before the winter!

I'm hungry.

I'm scared!

The settlers' first winter in North America was very cold and snowy.

In the spring, some Native Americans went to see the settlers.

You haven't got food. We are good at fishing and farming. We can help you.

Thank you!

Please teach us!

It's autumn again. We've got a lot of food now.

The Native Americans were good teachers.

We must remember to give thanks. Let's celebrate Thanksgiving every year!
